TOR-NIDO Halloween Antics Over, Local Family Starts Christmas Baking

By VERA C. WRIGHT
FR 2-2288

The young people aren't the only ones who reserve the month of October for Halloween antics. Mr. and Mrs. J. Allan celebrated their 16th wedding anniversary with a costume party, masks and all. Rod Young was the hit of the evening with his demon costume for which he received first prize. Rod admitted that he was the most comfortable, for his red trousers were really long underwear!

The hosts, Jane and Jim Allan, immediately after the party left for Palm Springs where they will re-live their honeymoon days for two weeks.

Chocolate chip cookies and fudge are being boxed and put away for Thanksgiving and Christmas already. Ann Bergen and daughter Frances have been busy baking and cooking for three weeks already.

Betty and Roger Barnes are to be congratulated for painting their home, inside and out, laying their tile, and building a large picture window inside of four weeks. They wanted to be sure their home was completely redecorated in time to greet their first little heir who is expected the latter part of January.

Luncheon at Marineland and dinner at the Wayfarers Inn was all part of the celebration of the Ralph Dunns' fifth wedding anniversary last Sunday. Their gifts to each other were gold watches with their initials and the dates engraved on them.

The Victorian thriller in three acts, "Angel Street," now playing in the Campus Theater of El Camino College, had a very successful opening and will complete its run on Nov. 9 and 10. It should be a "must" on your itinerary of entertainment this week if you haven't already seen it!

A new neighbor, Mrs. Amos Chadwick, introduced herself to Roslin Ave. neighbors on Friday by entertaining Mrs. Glen Runstead, Mrs. Jerry Westmoreland, Mrs. Charles Hynes and Mrs. Paul W. Herring with an evening of bingo and refreshments. Open-faced sandwiches on a variety of breads topped off with a white and chocolate layer cake and coffee completed the evening in which those in attendance received so many lovely prizes.

Mrs. Herring won a lovely cup and saucer set, Mrs. Hynes won a set of toms and a cat-suspender, Mrs. Westmoreland was the winner of stationery, and Mrs. Runstead carried home her prize of candy.

Most memorable of all goblins, witches, clowns, ghosts and characters who yelled out "trick or treat!" at our front door was a 2-year-old clown and the 3-year-old gypsy who somehow managed to utter a very strong "Thank you."

Get-well-wishes are also being extended to handsome Michael Newton, of the kindergarten set who resides at 18521 Amie St. and was struck by a car during the past week. Among the most surprised persons at the "250 luncheon" were Mary Jackson, Peggy Comstock and Genevieve Danells. Although they thought the luncheon was for 250 persons, it was really for 15 persons and the lunch consisted of 250 calories! Dessert included also!

One lovely matron in our community who celebrated losing 20 pounds by eating an extra large banana split! What hubby said is something I wouldn't dare repeat but I bet she won't eat another banana split!

This is practically our last chance to assist in the raising of our $1000 quota for the transportation of County Life-guard teams to Australia for the Olympics. Tonight, starting at 7 o'clock, the Olympic water polo team and the County Lifeguards in action will present a lifesaving demonstration and a water polo game. A $1 donation will admit you to this evening of entertainment at the municipal plunge.

Robert Long will never, never try to show his son Robbie how to skate again! Why? Well, skinned knees and elbows can be most uncomfortable after two weeks!

Dunking doughnuts can be most exciting when part of a dunking contest, according to John L. Bright, who won the first prize cigarette lighter after dunking and eating 16 large homemade doughnuts.

Frances Bryant was the teen-age hostess who insisted on all guests bobbing for apples before joining her Halloween party. A pie-eating contest was next with the winner taking home a pie. Eating marshmallows on strings completed the evening for the 14 guests in costume attire. Turkey sandwiches, root beer and cokes disappeared by the dozens, according to mother Nell Bryan and father Bob who were prepared with a 30-pound turkey and five cases of pop. Trick or treaters were invited in the living room to dunk for apples floating around in ice water. It's a wonder there were 40 apples left.

Mrs. H. A. Coffey is still discussing the lovely time she had at Ensenada and we hope to get the complete details of this interesting trip soon.

How many times did you get a glimpse of the Glenn Blakes at the Perry PTA carnival? After a delicious meal of tacos for dinner their only regret was that breakfast hadn't been served at the carnival also! This charming couple reside at 16825 Thornburgh Ave.

The three loveliest gals at a certain special dance was Marie Callahan, Helen Cobos and Lucille Callahan. It's no wonder these gals rate a whistle with every step they take.

Wonder who brought home more loot? Shirlene Paulette, John or Patty Herring, or was it father Paul who wore a mask and cowboy hat but somehow couldn't reduce the height!

Happy birthday to Mrs. H. H. Woods of Oregon who is visiting with her daughter, Pegge Parkes, till after Thanksgiving. This is the first time they have seen each other in nearly eight years. Fried chicken, ice cream and cake, with a visit to an early neighborhood show helped to commemorate her birthday.
